DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 USC §102(b) as anticipated or in the alternative under 35 U.S.C. 103(a). This rejection is set forth in the prior Office action paper number 5.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed on November 26, 2001 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants argue that the cited references does not teach the changing of the mass and/or the spring constant of the dynamic damper. While the reference does not articulate the dampening as changing the mass and/or the spring constant of the system as it is articulated in the present invention. A carefully review of the present application shows that the spring constant is changed by the addition of weight(s) to the dynamic damper or by changing the position of the weight(s) within the dynamic damper rod, see page 3, lines 9-14 of the present application. This is what the cited reference does, i.e., moving and/or adding weight to the system to decrease the vibration(s) of the system. Therefore, the reference still reads on the claims as claimed. Note also that Arnhold et al. include embodiments in which the vibrations are absorbed by a damper by the addition of weights and the system becomes a passive damper, see column 6, line 67 through column 7, line

In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
